Monday, Auguſt 18*th*, 1746. [Numb. 647.]

LONDON, May 1.

Extract of a Letter from an Officer in the Duke's Army, written two Days after the Battle of Culloden Muir.

I Cannot omit one Circumſtance, viz. that great Execution was done with the Bayonets, which the Men are now ſenſible are a better Weapon than a Highland Broad Sword. The Rebels had in the Field of Battle near 10 000 The Remainder are ſo diſperſed that it will be impoſſible for them to join again. "

We hear that Orders are ſent to the Prince of Heſſe to hold himſelf in Readineſs for the immediate Embarkation of the Forces under his Command for Flanders.

We learn from ſeveral private Letters, before and ſince the gaining the late Victory over the Rebels, that in the March from Aberdeen to Inverneſs, his Royal Highneſs took the Pains to confer with every Battalion of Foot, on the proper Method of uſing the Muſket and Bayonet to Advantage againſt the Sword and Target, and that the Succeſs of the Engagement was unanimouſly aſcribed to the ſeaſonable Inſtructions of his Royal Highneſs.

We are likewiſe inform'd, that the Advantage taken of attacking the Enemy in Flank, by which they were in a great Meaſure deprived of the Benefit of the Athol Men, upon whom they greatly depended, was owing to the perſonal Penetration of the Duke, who, notwithſtanding, conſulted the General Officers before Orders were given for that Purpoſe to the Horſe and Dragoons.

By the private Letters from Inverneſs it is ſufficiently confirm'd that the Rebels had Orders to give no Quarter whatever to any of the King's Forces.

We hear his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland is to have his Yearly Income of 15,000 l. augmented by Parliament to 40,000 l per Ann.

Both Houſes of Parliament will now ſit for the Diſpatch of Buſineſs moſt part of the Summer.

On Tueſday, about Noon, Charles Palmer, Eſq; Deputy Serjeant at Arms of the Hon. Houſe of Commons, ſet out in a Poſt Chaiſe for Scotland, with the Congratulatory Addreſs of Thanks of the Houſe to his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland for his defeating the Rebels.

On Tueſday the brave Capt. Phillips, Commander of the Alexander Privateer, who cut the Solebay Man of War out of a Port in France, and brought her into Briſtol, was introduced to his Majeſty, who was graciouſly pleaſed to receive him with particular Marks of Favour, and to commend his Bravery.

The George, Phillips, from Boſton for Carolina, is loſt in her Paſſage.

The Jane and Mary, Hancock, from Carolina, is taken and carried into St. Malo's.

London, May 3. Some of the Rebel Ladies who are now Priſoners, having behaved like MEN, with a true Military Spirit, it is preſum'd, that tho' no Cartel can be admitted with Regard to the Rebel Gentlemen, there will be no Impropriety in exchanging theſe Ladies againſt ſuch of our Officers as on former Occaſions behav'd like WOMEN, and are ſtill in the Power of the Pretender's Friends, either in France or Scotland.

Extract of a Letter from Briſtol, dated May 3.

This Day arrived the Mercury Snow, Matthews, from Jamaica. She came out on the 15th of March, and in the Windward Paſſage came up with the Counteſs of Leiceſter Packet, Capt. Herman, who ſailed the Day before under Convoy of Man of War thro' the Paſſage; where a Sloop (a Pirate) came along Side the Mercury, and was going to board her; which the Man of War ſeeing, fired at her, and ſo diſabled her, that ſhe ſtruck; and all the Men are carried into Jamaica; where it is hoped they will be hanged. She belonged to Montſerrat and was run away with by the Boatſwain, and ſome other idle Fellows. They had taken a Veſſel bound to Jamaica, but I don't hear what they did with her.

London, May 6. All our Accounts from Flanders ſeem to agree, that the French are determined, and accordingly are preparing vigorouſly, to attack Marſhal Batbiani in his Entrenchments; the Deciſion of which Battle, in all Probability, will determine the Fate of the Dutch, and of all Flanders.

We are aſſured his Royal Highneſs the Duke has wrote Word from Inverneſs that he ſhall not be able to finiſh his Operations in Scotland in leſs than a Month or ſix Weeks.

From the London Gazette.

Whitehall, May 4. This Day an Expreſs arrived from Edinburgh with the following Advices.

Edinburgh, April 30 By Letters from Inverneſs of the 25th, his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland continued there, and the Lord Preſident of the Seſſion arrived that Day. The Number of Priſoners increaſes at Inverneſs. The Priſons at Aberdeen, Montroſe, and Stirling are filled, and Priſoners are continually brought into Perth, Dumfriſs, Dundee, Lewis, and Dumfries. By Expreſs from Dumbarton, we have an Account, that the Marquis of Tullibardine, and an Italian who calls himſelf Mittchell, and ſays he has been thirty Years in the Service of the Pretender, having ſurrendered themſelves to Mr. Buchannan, of Drumakill, a Juſtice of the Peace, were by him committed to the Caſtle of Dumbarton. Detachments of the Edinburgh Regiment were ſent out ſome Days ago along the South Side of the Firth, in order to intercept Rebels: and Yeſterday at the Queen's Ferry they ſeized one Robert Murray, a Writer in Edinburgh, a Life Guard Man in the late Rebel Army, and ſent him hither. Laſt Night one James Hay a Scotſman, who calls himſelf a Captain and Paymaſter of Lord John Drummond's Regiment, ſurrendered himſelf to the Lord Juſtice Clerk, and was by his Lordſhip committed to our Caſtle. This Man ſays, that the French, viz. Drummond's Regiment, the Iriſh Picquets, and Fitz James's Horſe, at the Time of the late Battle, amounted to between 6 and 700 Men; that of the Firſt 50 were killed in the Battle, and of the ſecond about 100. He further ſays, that he parted from the Perſon called Lord John Drummond at Ruthven who took the Money belonging to the Regiment from him, and divided it amongſt his Officers, deſiring every one to ſhift for himſelf, as he intended to do; that the Rebels had not received any Pay for ſome Weeks before the Battle; that their Magazine of Proviſions being very low, they were forced to try a Battle; that the Night before they were extremely harraſſed by marching and countermarching and before they could get any Refreſhment, they were ſurpriſed by the Duke's quick March. General Campbell is marched towards Lochaber, in order to clear that Country of the Rebels, who are at preſent diſperſed all over it, and are beginning to rob and plunder. On Wedneſday laſt Glengyle, with about 120 Men well armed, in their Retreat from Sutherland, paſſed the Tay near Finlayrig on their Way home to Balwhidder. We have Advices here, that Lord Pitſligo with many of the Foot that followed him, are lurking about the Coaſt of Buchan, in hopes of finding an Opportunity to make their Eſcape to France.

London, May 8. Laſt Night arrived a Mail from Holland, by which we are aſſured, that the whole French Army appeared before fore that of Marſhal Bathiani on the 11th of May, N. S. near Mechlin; but being very much fatigued after ſo long a March as they had had that Day, they did not think proper to make the Attack that Night, but contented themſelves with ſending out Cannon and Parties to attack ſeveral important Poſts; and the ſame Night they actually began battering Fort Marguerite, intending to attack the Auſtrians early the next Morning; But, in the Night, Marſhal Bathiani, finding himſelf, as it was judged, not ſtrong enough to withſtand them, took the Opportunity of ſlipping away more towards Antwerp, giving up his advantageous Camp, Mechlin and ſeveral other Places, which the French immediately took Poſſeſſion of, and were preparing to follow them.

By Letters received laſt Night from Aberdeen, dated May 1ſt, we learn, that for two or three Days paſt, great Number of Rebels, but none of any Note, had been ſent in there by the different Parties that had been ſent out by his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland into the ſeveral diſaffected Counties, inſomuch that they ſcarcely knew where to put them, all the Goals and other ſtrong Places appointed to hold them being quite full; ſo that they were obliged to carry many of them, tied in Waggons, to Montroſs, and ſhip them off for Edinburgh Caſtle, and other Priſons at a Diſtance: That Old Glengary's Clan had laid down their Arms, and ſubmitted themſelves Priſoners; and that his Royal Highneſs, who had began cantoning his Troops all a croſs the Country, was preparing to ſet out for Fort-Auguſtus, from whence, 'twas believed, he would march to Stirling, and ſo on to Edinburg, leaving Forces at every proper and convenient Place all the Way.

Whitehall, May 6. Yeſterday a Meſſenger arrived from his Royal Highneſs the Duke of Cumberland, with the following Advices Inverneſs, April 30 Lieutenant Colonel Leighton, of Major General Blakeney's Regiment, is ordered to take the Command of the Caſtle of Stirling; and Major General Blakeney is to come hither, to take that of the Troops which will be left here.

Lord Ancram is marched To day, with Lord Mark Kerr's Regiment, for the Eaſtern Coaſt

His Royal Highneſs the Duke has iſſued a Proclamation for ſeizing all Rebels and their Arms

The greateſt Diligence is uſing to get a ſufficient Number of Boats upon Lock Neſs, and as ſoon as that is done his Royal Highneſs propoſes to march with Fifteen Battalions, and Kingſton's Horſe, to Fort Auguſtus, in two Marches; and Lord Loudoun, with the Argyllſhire Militia, and the Independent Companies, will march through the Hills on the Right and Left, in Purſuit of the Rebels.

Lord Rea's People are ſent back to their own Country, and Lord Sutherland's return Home To-day.

The Pretender's Son, Lord Perth, and the Perſon calling himſelf Lord John Drummond, are moving about in the Cameron's Country with young Lochiel, who was wounded again in the laſt Battle, and have not above 20 or 30 Men with them.

Hague, May 10 We have been advtied by a Courier from the Prince of Waldeck, that the Allies have abandonned Mechlin, Louvain, and Tirlemont, and have poſted them behind the Nethe, having on one Side a large Morals, and on the other Entrenchments, which will ſecure them from any Attack from the French Horſe The French Army we are inform'd too are marching in two Columns towards the Allies, whilſt another of them have taken the Road to Dendirmonde, in order to attack the Tete de Flanders, which is over againſt Antwerp, on the other Side of the Scheld, and covers that City on that ſide.

London, May 10. We hear the Lands in the Savoy, ſaid to be worth 3000 l per Annum, which were leaſed out by the Crown, and are ſince fallen in, will ſoon be granted to his Royal Highneſs the Duke, who has done ſuch great and ſingular Services to his Country. Several of the old Houſes are now pulling down, and the Whole will be rebuilt.

Extract of a Letter from Edinburgh, May 3.

"We learn from Perth of the 1ſt Inſtant, that Count Mirabel, an Officer of high Rank, and Enginier General of the Pretender's Army, with three Servants, were that Day brought in there by a Party of the Earl of Broadalbin's Men, who made them Priſoners."

Extract of a private Letter, Antwerp, May 16.

It is impoſſible that more ſhould be done for the Service of the Common Cauſe, than has been done both by the Officers and Soldiers of the Allied Army; but there is no reſiſting a prodigious Superiority, eſpecially in the Manner this has been conducted. We have been obliged to attend to the Safety of Namur, Charleroy, this City, and the Dutch Barrier, all at a Time; and hitherto the French have gained no Advantage with their numerous Army and prodigious Train of Artillery. When we quitted Mechlin, it was becauſe it was untenable, in our Situation, and to have left a Garriſon there would have too much weakened the Army. We are now behind the Nethe; the Marſhal's Head Quarters are at Contich, two Leagues from hence; and I came hither this Morning to give Orders for Horſes for the Service of the Artillery, which is to be employed in ſecurling Lier, Wilem, Duffel, and other Places. It may be depended upon, that the French are at leaſt double our Force, excluſive of the Corps on the other Side the Scheld, which advances that Way towards this Place at the ſame Rate with their grand Army.

Hague, May 20. M. Bathiani has effectuated his Retreat without any Loſs or Moleſtation, and has found it adviſeable to puſh the ſame quite to Eredah, where he is ſuppoſed to have arrived laſt Night or this Morning. The Marſhal has left nothing behind him, except a few Men in Fort Marguerite, and in the Citadel of Antwerp.

London, May 13 Sir James Kinloch, his two Brothers, and his Brother in Law, are taken by the Huſſians, near the Grampian Hills, and are confined in Perth.

We learn from Genoa, that the Inhabitants of that City are again exceſſively ſtreightened for Food, eſpecially ſince the Arrival of another Engliſh Squadron upon their Coaſt, which has already ſunk and deſtroy'd ſeveral Veſſels laden with Corn and other Proviſions; ſo that if it were not for the Neighbourhood of the French and Spaniſh Armies, the common People would infallibly oblige ſuch as brought them into this Diſtreſs, to bring them out again, by totally abandoning the new Syſtem.

From the LONDON GAZETTE

Edinburgh, May 9 By Expreſs from the Sheriff of Argyle the following Account from Capt. Noel of the Greyhound Man of War, to Major General Campbell, has been received.

Greyhound in Aroſs Bay, May 4, 1746 Upon my Arrival here from Ireland, I was inform'd of Lord Loudon's being at Sky, whither I went to offer him my Aſſiſtance. I attempted getting to the Northward, but Wind and Weather would not permit. Upon the firſt Inſtant I had an Account of two large Ships being at Loch Nevis. The next Morning at Day Light I weighed, in Company with the Baltimore, and kept plying, the Wind being contrary. In the Evening the Terror joined me. Next Morning at Day break we ſtood in for the Loch, and a little after Four I croſſed pretty cloſe to the Commodore, gave him a Broadſide, and then ſtood to the other. The Ships followed my Example, and we were engaged 'till Nine o'Clock, when our Maſts and Rigging were not capable of keeping under Sail, which was the only Means we could propoſe to annoy them by, as we were inferior to them in Strength. One of the French Ships carried 34 Guns, 24 of which were Nine Pounders. The other carried 32, 22 of which were Nine Pounders. Wherefore after lying at Anchor ſome Time, and having repaired our Damages as well as we could, we made Sail, and left them, and are now refitting. I have ſent to the Furnace and Raven to join me as ſoon as poſſible, and hope we ſhall ſtill have it in our Power to give a better Account of them We all have ſuffered pretty much in our Maſts, Yards, Rigging and Sails, and I believe we have not left them in a Condition of putting to Sea immediately. We ſaw ſeveral Cheſts and Barrels on Shore, which we judged to be Arms and Ammunition, and landed from theſe Ships; and we alſo perceived many People in Arms by the Water ſide.
